DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claim is indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the invention. The claim recites the term "such as" which does not state the meets and bounds of the claim. The term is open and thus does not state the exact limits of the claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1 to 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fornell et al. (WO 98/14644).

The Fornell et al reference teaches a method and apparatus for depositing SiC or Group III-nitrides, note entire reference. In a chamber, the reactant gases are heated and flowed to the substrate. The temperatures of deposition can reach 2000 °C, note page 4. The gases then deposit the material to be grown on the substrate. There are outlet means so that the remaining gases in the chamber are flowed out, note figures. There is a means to flow a separate gas, which is not a deposition gas into the chamber, note figure 1. The separate gas flow enters the chambers but does not interfere with the deposition, note page 3. This separate gas, which is, can be a halogen to feed so as to interact with the remaining gases. The sole difference between the instant claims and the prior art is the placement of the separate gas feed. However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentation the optimum, operable separate gas feed placement in the Fornell et al reference in order to increase control over when the gases interact, after deposition and still control downstream deposition.
